SCORING

When somebody plays their last tile, the round is over, and everybody else pays the pips left in their hand.

A blocked round, with the boneyard empty and nobody able to play, ends the same way.

The double blank costs 50 by Chicken Foot's own rule, or 25 or nothing if your table plays it that way.

WINNING

After the last round, the lowest total wins.

Level totals go to whoever went out in more rounds, then to whoever had the best single round.

For a five-round game, stop after the double five.
